From Bard

The phrase "Don't swat a fly with a sledgehammer" means to avoid using excessive force or a disproportionate solution to a problem. It is often used to advise people to think carefully about the best way to deal with a situation, and to avoid using more force than is necessary.

Here are some examples of how this phrase can be applied to living a life:

1. Don't quit your job without having another one lined up.
2. Don't get married just because you're pregnant.
3. Don't buy a house that you can't afford.
4. Don't start a fight that you can't win.
5. Don't say something you'll regret.
6. Don't lend money to friends or family.
7. Don't gossip about others.
8. Don't judge people before you get to know them.
9. Don't give up on your dreams.
10. Don't be afraid to take risks.

Here are 100 more items:

1. Don't waste your time on things that don't matter.
2. Don't be afraid to ask for help.
3. Be kind to yourself and others.
4. Forgive yourself and others.
5. Live in the present moment.
6. Be grateful for what you have.
7. Take care of your health.
8. Learn from your mistakes.
9. Be patient.
10. Be persistent.

The list could go on and on. The important thing is to remember that there is no one-size-fits-all solution to life's problems. Sometimes, the best way to deal with a situation is to use a sledgehammer. But more often than not, it's better to use a more gentle touch.

Here are some additional tips for avoiding the "sledgehammer approach" to life:

- Take a step back and assess the situation.
- Consider all of your options.
- Choose the solution that is most likely to be effective and least likely to cause collateral damage.
- Be willing to compromise.
- Be open to feedback.
- Be willing to change your mind.

Remember, life is not a war. There is no need to go around swinging a sledgehammer. Most of the time, a gentle touch is all that is needed.
