October 28, 2024

In my dream, I was in an airship in the cloud when someone was prototyping a flying device that can make humans fly in the clouds and I was given the opportunity to test drive the new invention. I grabbed the opportunity and walked to the edge of the airship and step in the clouds and lo and behold I was floating in the air. I have to learn how to propel myself through the clouds at first but then later I was able to figure out the propulsion like learning how to ride a bicycle. I can touch the clouds with my hand, move to the left or right my direction without thinking of getting any accident. Humans in the airship was looking and observing me in awe of the new transportation I am using. I saw a small touring vessel with passengers and a captain and I almost collided with them playfully but I have the control of my propulsion at will.
